THREE HUNDRED AND SEVENTY-THIRD CHAPTER

After a woman passes the age of twenty-five, she likes to say that she can get along and be perfectly happy without having a man around all of the time. If she is unmarried, she is apt to find this article of the feminist faith in the face of her wedded friends.

A Woman Likes to Depend Upon Her Husband.

The detective's theory was sound, and I needed no proof. No sooner did I find myself approaching the climax of the Mexican affair than I realized how weak and worthless I was, and wanted to remain!

When I was on his way to join me and to take over my hardware. He had been detained by the police, ostensibly to wait for important papers concerning the mines, but in reality to keep him from travelling on the train with Katherine Miller.

I grew sick whenever I imagined what might have happened to the unfortunate girl. To be sure, she had a big market value—she was good for an enormous ransom—and if she had been clever enough to impress this fact upon her captors, she would have been spared a terrible fate.

Nothing could be done until Babe was safely north of the Rio, nevertheless, Morrison shaped and discarded a score of plans for searching for Miss Miller. By means of his telegraph code, which seemed to cover only the coffee business, he kept Daddy Lorrimer in touch with the situation. And he called upon some of the professional friends to meet him at the nearest border town. The bunch would hustle, he said, for rescuing a lovely young girl from bandits was their favorite game.

My husband assumed me that the rings she wore were a grand advertisement of her wealth, and one which the bandits would recognize and bank on. He argued that she would exist in perfect safety—and vast discomfort—until her money value was ascertained.

C.P.R. HAD LOBBY ON BILL

President Contradicts Word of Hon. Dr. Reid.

Wishes the C.N.R. Every Success.

Toronto, Nov. 21.—Mr. R. W. Beatty, K. C. President of the Canadian Pacific Railway, was the distinguished speaker before the Empire Club, at their luncheon in the King Edward Hotel, and there was present a record attendance of members to hear his address upon the subject, "Ontario and the Railways."

The greatest variety of railway traffic in Canada was to be found in Ontario, and a brief review of these was given by the speaker to show the extent of the productions which contribute to the support of the railway systems within the Province. In manufactured products alone, Ontario in 1917 had produced over 51 per cent. of the total for Canada, amounting to thirteen hundred million tons. Ontario's own production valued at eighty million, was 46 per cent. of the Dominion total, and her agricultural products 22 per cent., with a value of over one billion. Her pulpwood was over 50 per cent. of the total, and her paper 43 per cent., while in dairy products the value and tonnage were over 62 per cent. of the total for Canada.

As showing the probable future of railway traffic in the Province, Mr. Beatty then gave some comparisons of mileage, stating that Ontario, with 11,000 miles of railway has five times as great an area as the State of Pennsylvania, though her mileage is only slightly greater, and with five times the area of Ohio she has only 1,000 more miles of railways. With increased population, greater facilities would be needed, and the Canadian Pacific, he declared, had not reached the limit of its construction in Ontario.

With reference to the Canadian National Railway System, Mr. Beatty declared that it would develop into one of the largest single organizations in the world. When completed it would possess some 19,000 miles in Canada, and some 2,000 miles in the United States, while the total Canadian Pacific mileage was approximately 19,400. Whatever might be the views as to the advisability of having acquired the extensive mileage of the Grand Trunk Railway and its operation under the aegis of the Government, there could be no two views as to the desirability of its success, and he declared that he could say with perfect candor and honesty that no one desired its success more than himself, a hope that anyone could reasonably wish the success of the country to be as light as possible.

Mr. Beatty referred to the "unwarranted" assumption of a prominent member of the Cabinet, when addressing the House of Commons, in the history of Canada, against the lobby carried by the C.P.R. against the measure for the acquisition of the Grand Trunk.

"I am in a position to know," declared Mr. Beatty emphatically, "that neither directly nor indirectly was the vote of any single member of the House of Commons or of the Senate ever influenced by or on behalf of the Canadian Pacific." The statement was greeted with applause.

Mr. Beatty, continuing, said that he could not see how a transportation character in Canada upon which the attitude of the C.P.R. cannot be frankly stated, jurisdiction in the country was too great for it to be otherwise, and he declared that he knew of no corporation more aloof from politics than it was. The measure of its support would depend on the character of the service rendered, and its principal object, he pointed out, was efficiency.

To indicate what the future prosperity of Canada meant to the company, the speaker declared that the Canadian Pacific had invested the sum of $27 millions, of which $10 millions have been contributed either directly or indirectly by the shareholders. As indicating the importance to the country of the question of increased railway employment, Mr. Beatty stated that during 1918 and 1919 the total cost of increasing the whole of the interest on the debt of Canada each year by the issue had completed in other words, the total interest to be paid by the people of Canada on the war debt for one year was not equal to the increase to employees of one branch of industrial activity. The only way the railway could meet these increases was by increased rates, but though rates had been increased they only produced 42 millions for the Canadian railways, which had to meet the increasing expenses of 52 millions themselves. If the wages were again increased rates would have to be raised, and the only way out of the vicious circle Mr. Beatty saw was the methods being adopted in the United States and Great Britain recently to reduce or check the high cost of living, which he declared was rapidly becoming the most serious hindrance to the man of fixed and moderate means. The speaker considered that the suggestions of financial aid others that the whole country should be left to the operation of laws of supply and demand to deal with itself could not be safe, because since the whole world is suffering from abnormal conditions, principally the demand for foodstuffs which exceeds the supply.

The chief necessity for the moment was increased production, declared the speaker, who added that never before in individual efficiency more necessary.

LEGAL BIG 'WIGS.'

Judges' Clothes Are Costly in the Old Land.

In England Judges of the High Court are the highest paid legal functionaries, wear what are known as "full-bottom dress wigs." These wigs have long flaps at the sides that fall over the front of each shoulder. Each flap is adorned with rows upon rows of curls.

The top of this wig is a mass of short, dirty curls, frizzily upright.

of a wig-maker are combed periodically to recurl and retrim the frizzy part.

Correspondingly shorter and smaller wigs are worn by lesser judges—those presiding over the lower courts. They are termed "bob-wigs," reach just above the ears, and have no imposing sideflaps. Also, they have only two little vertical curls at each side, the best "bob-wig" cost judges about £10 each, but £3 super ones can be bought for about £5.

Wigs worn by criminal judges are distinguished from those of civil judges by a little patch of black horse-hair on the top.

The neatest-looking wigs in the profession, and certainly the most comfortable to wear, are those donned by barristers. They are small and have a single curl on each side. A barrister who is dignified by the letters K.C. (King's Counsel) after his name wears an additional curl over each ear. Barrister's wigs cost about £40 each.

The robes of a High court judge are gorgeous and imposing. They are made of rich silks and trimmed with ermine. The cost of these magnificent robes is often as much as £100, though they can be bought for about £50. Then, too, High Court judges carry a never-wear, large, three-cornered hat.

Judges who preside over lower courts wear much less gorgeous robes and do carry three-cornered hats. A barrister's gown is made of black all-wool or some similar material, known as "stuff" in the legal profession. It is only when a barrister has become a K.C. that he may don a gown of silk.

For this reason a King's Counsel is often referred to as a "silk"—London Tit-Bits.

LIMITS CONTROL OF MILK PRICE

Board of Commerce Hands Are Tied

By Refusal of Lower Feed Prices.

Ottawa, Nov. 20.—In a statement handed out to-night the Board of Commerce announces that it is unable, owing to the refusal of its application to the Canadian Wheat Board for a reduction in the selling price of milk, to control the advancing prices of milk and milk products other than by supervision of profits.

In the opinion of the board there cannot be cheaper milk until the price of milking is reduced. The power of fixing prices for these milfeeds, according to the statement, has been conferred upon the Canadian Wheat Board, and this body has refused to allow the reduction. The statement of the Board of Commerce is as follows:

"The Board of Commerce is in receipt of a number of applications on behalf of the various cities and towns of Ontario to the prevailing prices of milk and to recently made rates in price. It is gravely concerned that the present price levels in various localities is the direct result of the high cost of milfeeds, and is of the opinion that a price-fixing jurisdiction has been conferred upon the Canadian Wheat Board, the Board of Commerce caused application to be made to the Canadian Wheat Board for a reduction of the selling price of the milked in question. This application was refused."

The Board of Commerce, which has no price-fixing jurisdiction, but instead is left to the prevailing prices of milk and to recently made rates in price, is of the opinion that it is unable to control the advance in the price of milk and milk products other than by way of supervision of profits of producers and distributors. In the opinion of the board, the affording of relief lies in other hands. Indeed, its efforts directed on behalf of the consumer have been resisted, and its jurisdiction to concern itself with the price of milfeeds, and its jurisdiction to concern itself with the price of milfeeds, has been denied.

"Under the circumstances hereafter, whenever special application is made to the board for a review of the prices of producers and distributors, the board will, to the best of its ability, and as early as possible, inquire into the situation and declare as to profits made, but it can assume no responsibility for the result. It is, therefore, unable to declare otherwise that the prices charged are reasonable and just."

"There cannot be cheaper milk until the price of milfeeds, such as bran and shorts, is substantially reduced."

OLD PIRATES—AND NEW

It is said that the pirate had a good deal of gold and silver wherever it might be. The olden days are over. The times of the present run within some grocery store.

The successer who knew no fear was a good deal of a coward. And, with his good good eye near. No more his bold, brave front or fear. No more his bold, brave front or fear. No more his bold, brave front or fear. No more his bold, brave front or fear.

Once Robin Hood hid in the wood. And with his good good eye near. No more his bold, brave front or fear. No more his bold, brave front or fear. No more his bold, brave front or fear. No more his bold, brave front or fear.

The Thrill of Being Wet. There is something rudimentary and fundamental about having water poured upon one and getting completely and deliciously wet—not damp, not moist.

wet. You yourself when a child never enjoyed anything so much as your first stretching in an unfurnished and unavoidable raincoat—the thrill of being wet, the cool drive of the water on your nose, into your ears and down your neck, and the jostling of wet, waterlogged bodies. Then the (edum of being rubbed with alcohol, bandied up and warned you would catch your death did not diminish the event. You voted it better than the time you fell off the boat dock. It lasted longer.—Atlantic Monthly.

We are too apt to judge by comparison. For instance, most things seem tame to the fellow who is savoring his wild oats.

SEES TROUBLE IN S. GERMANY

Gen. Maurice Foretells a Monarchist Rising.

Reactionary Revolt Also Likely in Russia.

London, Nov. 20.—An arresting article on the situation in Germany is contributed by Major-General Maurice to the Daily News. He says: "It is quite impossible that the German people can take an aggressive military action. The whole railway system of the country has been disorganized by the effect of the immense strain thrown upon it by the war and by the surrender to the Allies under the terms of the armistice of great quantities of rolling stock. It is not to-day capable of doing more than meet the bare necessities of the population during the coming winter."

"It is out of the question that Germany could concentrate 700,000 men or anything approximating that number in any one area and keep them supplied with their needs. Further, food supplies are so meagre that even that she is living from hand to mouth and has no margin for rationing large military forces."

"Germany knows perfectly well that, in these circumstances, she is quite helpless, and that the renewal of the blockade would spell for her almost irretrievable disaster. It is therefore nonsense to talk of Germany of to-day as possessing any real military power and as constituting a menace to the security of others."

"On the other hand, the internal condition of Germany is unquestionably very serious. Junkers and underlings of the military caste have found that their occupation has gone. They dread everything to the Hohenlohe, and they see in the restoration the one means of getting back something they have lost."

"There is no question that these men are very busy intriguing to-day. Militarists are obtaining recruits from many who have come to think that any change must be for the better. For exactly the same reasons the Spartacists are steadily gaining adherents, particularly in South Germany."

"There are many and interesting indications that revolution is in the air, and the situation will almost certainly get worse as the winter is felt. Those who know best are going on to-day are anticipating that a reactionary rising in Russia may break out any time, and will be signal for the Red tide in South Germany."

as broad there is grave danger that the large area of Europe, which is to-day in a state of chaos, may be greatly extended, a coalition of all factions which can only react unfavorably upon ourselves and upon the rest of the world. If revolution does break out in Germany, our chance of making Germany pay for ever very bright, will almost disappear."

"The one means which the Allies have of preventing Germany from regaining their just demands is to assist by all possible means the establishment of a firm Government in that country, and in restoration of German industries."

TREATY TO GO IN EFFECT SOON

Regardless of Action of U. S. Senate.

Supreme Council Ready to Carry It Out.

Paris, Nov. 20.—While the Supreme Council did not positively decide to-day to put into effect the treaty with Germany into effect on December 1st, its members all agreed it would be desirable to do so. An effort will be made to have all preparations for the enforcement of the treaty completed by that date. It is probable, but not certain, that the treaty will be put into effect very early in December, regardless of the failure of the United States to ratify the treaty.

The American delegates declared themselves still hopeful that a compromise will be arranged by the delegates, but the French and British peace delegations are not prepared to entertain any suggestion that another treaty move to the liking of the European allies, be negotiated, apparently not seriously taken.

The French, British and Italian delegates to the Peace Conference seemed to be dashed by the senate's refusal to approve the treaty and unable to comprehend the delegates of the American peace delegation failed to bind the American Government. The American delegates without instructions as regards their future course. Henry White will continue to sit in the Supreme Council, but the delegation will function as usual until otherwise instructed.

Secrecy in Parliament.

Heavy penalties are provided in the provisions of parliamentary secret session or cabinet decisions, but they cannot be as heavy as those which the parliament of Henry VII. inflicted for a similar offence. One of the most curious was that a foolhardy enough to tell the king himself what the commons had been debating. He was sent to the tower, and a special act of parliament was passed by which he and his posterity were barred from sitting in the house of commons as the representative of any place whatever. In the days of Queen Elizabeth a certain Mr. Hall, M.P., was found guilty of revealing the debates in the commons. He was expelled from the house, sent to the tower for six months and fined £200—a considerable fortune in those days.—London Spectator.

Slightness—That fellow Slighton has no mind of his own. He is actually afraid to think for himself. Cynics—That being the case he ought to get some one to do it for him.

Muggins—What a sensitive sort of fellow Wiggins is. Begins his fight to get any inside information out of Wiggins you would have to perform an acrobatic feat.

The Mirror Is Mightier Than the Word

Be the salesman ever so SKILLFUL and convincing, it takes the MIRROR to make or mar the sale. It will go the salesman one better every time, inasmuch as it presents to the customer all the details of fit and finish at a glance. Its power to put the last touches to the sale is MIGHTIER than any salesman's word. It clinches the argument with a finality that's convincing.

Where the garments are CUT and TAILORED CORRECTLY, as ours are, the MIRROR is a salesman's best friend, and has made some wonderful sales in our Overcoat department this last few weeks. Speaking of overcoats, we have some beauties this season, fabrics that simply radiate warmth and comfort, with beautiful color effects, surpassed by no other concern in Hamilton.

Our Big Manufacturing plant is making every effort to keep us supplied, and we received to-day a splendid lot of Coats. PRICE quotation is neither here nor there just now, because it's the coat that fills your eye full that you WANT, and OUR PRICE is always fair whether it's a coat at $25.00, $50.00, 75.00, $90.00, or any of the prices between.

There is an ACUTE shortage of overcoats owing to labor conditions and other factors, and our customers tell us we have the best showing in town.
